“ Our library system uses Humanities Washington programming to teach parents the skills to approach books with their kids and talk about the story together— and, as a result, about their lives, their thoughts, and their relationships as a family. Those skills build stronger readers and stronger communities in our rural and low-income areas, and make a difference that lasts long after the program is over.”

~ Corinne Wilson, Spokane County Library System

“ Humanities Washington programs are wonderfully interesting and the speakers very knowledgeable and engaging. You bring the world to our door!”

~ Librarian, Oak Harbor Library

“ Humanities Washington brings important educational and cultural opportunities to rural Whitman County. Because most of our residents are rurally isolated and many are low income, Humanities Washington programs help bridge the very real divides among urban and rural America.”

~ Kristie Kirkpatrick, Director,
Whitman County Rural Library District

“ Thank you so much for bringing Prime Time Family Reading to our school. It has touched many lives, including my own.”

~ Teacher, Shoultes Elementary
